

The RPEL (Recognition of Prior Experiential Learning) process

RPEL can be used for recognition of learning that has been achieved in a work place or other setting.

The learner reflects on their previous learning experiences that is compatible with an appropriate award.

An online MS forms is completed by the learner to register their interest in RPEL.

The learner discusses options for RPL with their teacher / tutor / instructor.

A meeting is arranged with learner and the RPL Co-ordinator to outline the work involved.

The learner must understand that there is work involved in preparing a portfolio.

Applications are processed by the QA team.

The learner can decide if RPL is suitable for them.

RPL RECOGNITION OF PRIOR LEARNING

A KCETB INFORMATION LEAFLET

RPL – WHAT IS RPL?

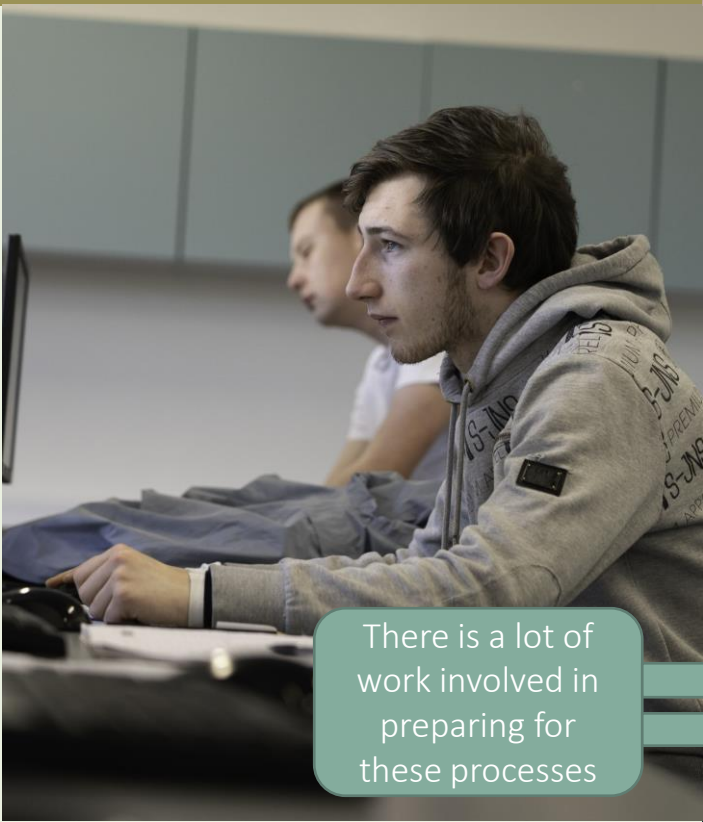

Recognition of prior learning (RPL) is a process which seeks to acknowledge all forms of learning, and to give them a value in the context of a destination award

RPL incorporates prior formal, informal and non-formal learning. It can be used to gain certification of an award within the National Framework of Qualifications. Recognition of Prior Learning (RPL) is particularly important as flexible and workplace learning opportunities expand.

How can I apply?

- KCETB has published their RPL policy. This is available on the KCETB QA website.
- KCETB RPL application forms are also available.
- Initial queries in relation to RPL can be directed to the class teacher / tutor / instructor or your centre manager.

There is a lot of work involved in preparing for these processes

RPL – What types of RPL are there?
